PIG FEEDING.

Professor Niles, when experimenting in pig feeding, divided the time into five periods. For the first period, when the pigs were the youngest, it took 3.8 pounds of meal for one pound of growth; in the second period, 4.5 pounds; third, 4.22 pounds; fourth, 4.24 pounds, and fifth 5.98 pounds. From this it appears that when the pigs were youngest one bushel made 14.73 pounds of growth; second, 13.82 pounds; third, 13.27 pounds; fourth, 10,68 pounds; fifth, 9,53 pounds, showing that the older the pigs grew the more feed it took to make a pound of meat. It may be safely counted, therefore, that ten pigs have gained eleven pounds in growth to each bushel of corn or its equivalent, or the 270 pounds have required twenty-four and one half bushels of corn, valued at $12.25, or $1.22 each, untill two months old, when most of them will be sold for breeding purpose. We find the cost of feeding the sow one year is $11.36. To this should be added $12.25 for feeding the pigs until two months old, making $23.61 as cost of feeding for litter. or $2.36 each at weaning time One may determine the worth of his ten acres of ground used as a pasture and count the interest as well as first cost of stock, all the outlay in hired help and attending to stock. Then one-twentieth of this footing should be added to the estimate of expenses of feed to ascertain the cost of each litter. The chances are that he will find his pigs have cost him just about what they are worth for feeding as stock hogs, and further, that unless he advertises juliciously through the papers reaching farmers and stockman he will hav his pigs left on his hands to fatten br the market. To be sure, they will the feeders and find ready sale

A MODERN BOY'S SEVEN AGES.

Mr. Shakespeare says that a man has seven ages, but to my opinion a boy about ten of his own. He begins with his first pair of breeches and a stick horse, and climbs up by degrees to toy guns and firecrackers and slingshot and breaking calves and billy goats, and to, sure enough, guns and pointer dog, and the looking-glass age, when he admires himself and greases his hair, and feels of his downy beard, and when he joins a brass band and toots a horn, and then he reads novels and falls in love and rides a prancing horse and writes perfumed notes to his girl. When his first love kicks him and begins to run with another fellow he drops into the age of despair and wants to go to Texas or some other region and sadly sings:

This world is all a fleeting show. Boys are mighty smart now adays. They know as much at ten years as we used to know at twenty, and it is right hard for us to keep ahead of 'em. One of these modern philanthropists was telling my kinsman the other day how to raise

"Never whip him," said he; "raise him on love and kindness and reason," and then he appealed to me for indorsement.

"And when that boy is about welve years old," said I, "do you go and talk to him, and, if possible, persuade him not to whip his daddy. Tell him that it is wrong and unfilial and will injure his reputation in the community."

The modern boy is entirely too BILL ARP.

IN THE PILOT HOUSE.

"Yes, zir; this kind of work obliges a man to keep sober as a judge. Of all men in the world, steamboat pilots and railroad engin-eers should let liquor alone. For on their clearness of sight and coolness of head depends the safety of life and property."

Keeping his hand on the wheel as he said this, Mr. A. Brockman, of No. 29½ Silver street, Chicago, added: "Of course, some of 'em drink: but the sober ones have the best positions and the best pay. Yes, the work and exposure sometimes tells on us; but for my part, I find PARKER's TONIC to be all the invigorant I need. I've got a bottle aboard here now; never go on a trip without it. When I haven't any appetite, or am in any way out of sorts, it sets me up in no time. If drinking men would use the Tonic, it would help em to break off. (No, that isn't a light-house; it's a star, low down near the water.) As I was saying, the Touic is new life bottled up. You see that flag-staff? Well, with a bottle of Parker's Toxic in the locker I can keep malaria as far from me as that, all the time. My wife has used it for three years for summer com-plaints and colic, and as an invigorant, when she's tired out from overwork. She says the Tonic is a daisy. Good-bye! Don't break your neek going below."

This preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be advertised and sold simply under the name of PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant ingredient, we drop the miss-
